

TEXAS HISTORICAL COMMISSION

CHC Appointee Criteria Recommendations

Texas Local Government Code (Chapter 318) enables the county commissioners court to appoint a County Historical Commission (CHC) for the purpose of initiating and conducting programs for the preservation of the county's historic cultural resources. CHCs are meant to be productive—to this end, appointees must be willing and able to serve.

CHC Appointment Season

Statute is found online at www.statutes.legis.state.tx.us/Docs/LG/htm/LG.318.htm. Note Sec. 318.003 below.

(c) Each commission member must have an interest in historic preservation and an understanding of local history and resources.

Appointment Methodology

Exact methodology for appointing CHCs may vary somewhat from county to county—some courts interview individuals seeking the appointment and others consider appointee recommendations from the CHC. Whatever the method, county officials should consider the following criteria prior to appointment. Applying our recommended criteria help ensure that appointees are active, work well with others, and leave a positive impression with the public.

Recommended Appointee Criteria

- Has an interest in historic preservation and a working knowledge of local history.
- Able and willing to volunteer time to plan and manage projects, programs, and events—must participate over and beyond attending commission meetings.
- Able and willing to attend preservation education opportunities outside of his/her county.
- Able to provide site visits to historic properties around the county to update surveys/property inventories and provide current information on site conditions for THC staff.
- Able to receive/respond to public inquiries about county historic resources in a timely manner.
- If at all possible, appointees should have access to the Internet and be able to send/receive email messages.

CHC Appointee Expectations

CHCs rely on the county commissioners court—a CHCs ruling body—to articulate expectations for the appointed role. The Texas Historical Commission (THC) provides preservation expertise and recommendations for preservation-related matters. THC also provides recommendations for organizational excellence; however, CHCs depend on county officials to set the tone and expectations for service.

Consider the following exhortations that county commissioners court should state at the onset of an individual's appointment, preferably when these individuals take an oath of office.

- Appointees must respect this professional appointment and can/will represent county government appropriately.
- If appointee does not maintain respectful behavior, appointee will be removed from CHC.
- Appointees must be a positive influence for preservation in the county and throughout the state.
- Appointees must be willing to work and partner with people and organizations in constructive ways.
- Appointees must promote a diverse interpretation of all county historic and cultural resources—this appointment should not be viewed as a time to prioritize personal/family-related interests.
- Appointees must ensure information collected today will be accessible in the future—the research and archiving that takes place as a CHC appointee is for the benefit of the public at large and should be accessible to all.
- CHC must provide ongoing updates—written and at court—on CHC activity to county commissioners court.

How County Officials Support CHCs

The time and energy provided by your CHC contributes to the vitality of your county. Please consider the following ways to support your CHC, and by extension, your county.

- Direct county auditor to discuss county policies with CHC to ensure business is conducted legally and ethically.
- Read CHC meeting minutes and attend CHC meetings when possible.
- Schedule regular meetings with your CHC chair to discuss ongoing business.
- Provide office and meeting space for your CHC appointees.
- Consider funding preservation education opportunities even when events are located outside the county—you have made the appointments, appointees are donating their service, and appointees need training for their role.
- Provide internet access to CHC appointees at the county courthouse to conduct CHC business and access THC web site and other preservation tools.
- Consider increasing budgeted financial support if appointees are providing substantial services from year to year, especially if amount has not been increased in recent years.
- Thank appointees during commissioners court—a little praise goes a long way, particularly when provided in public.
