The Triangle Motel complex is a representative example of the commercial development that proliferated along US 66. It is listed under Criteria A and C for its role in commerce and transportation associated with US 66 through Amarillo and the Texas Panhandle, and for its architectural significance as a representative example of a motel-café-gas station complex of the mid-twentieth century. The complex contains a motel, café, and gas station built in 1946, and a residence and maintenance garage built in 1952; they retain much of their historic design, materials, and setting.

SECTION 2

Architectural Description

Two types of motor court cabins: single and multi. The single cabins feature half-timbered porch gables over single door entry with half-round arched doors supported by wood brackets, stuccoed walls, wood-framed sash windows, and carports in between cabins with diagonal-cut wood siding fascia. The multi cabins feature smaller plainer porch gables supported by wood brackets, stuccoed walls, single entry doors, wood-framed sash and awning windows. The multi cabins are in linear units of two to three units. One unique cabin combines both types and is at the center of the rear row.

The tourist court was larger at double its current size with what appears to be another linear row dividing the whole in half (lines up with café building) with another linear row at the side of the neighboring parcel with another grouping of single cabins along the rear of the neighboring parcel. The neighboring parcel has been cleared of all structures, leaving pavement behind. The existing parcel has the units, office and café placed along the perimeter leaving the center for a circular drive and grassy area.

- Additions, modifications

SECTION 2

Architectural Description

One-story front-gabled rectangular-plan building that appears to have been the café for the tourist court with wide concrete steps, centered single entry door with screen door, sash windows that butt up to the corners on front and sides for wraparound effect (replacements), and brick walls. The entry door faces away from the office, indicating presence of the other neighboring parcel being part of original motor court. The rear elevation has another entry door with two sash windows.

Architectural Description

Two-part culvert under the access road next to the main lanes of West Amarillo Blvd. The first part under the access road is four-box concrete culvert with minimal curb that feeds into a half-round retaining pool that feeds into round pipe culvert (part 2) that goes under the parkland. The walls of the retaining pool are stone. Historical maps and aerials show that road improvement occurred between 1953 and 1961, which coincides with the realignment shift of Route 66 around the expanded Amarillo airport.

Architectural Description

One-story gable-roofed U-plan motel complex. Office block has shed-roofed porte cochere supported by metal poles, wood siding on front office section with sash and fixed glass windows and single entry door. The back office area has brick walls, brick planter out front, and sash windows. The white-painted plywood siding at the office is infill and appears to be the only alteration to the motel.

Architectural Description

One-story one-part commercial block building. This was a two-story hotel (1955 Sanborn) but has been reduced in height to one-story. Three bays wide, the storefronts have been infilled with hexagonal-patterned blocks with the southern-most one with metal-framed single entry door with transom window and metal-framed fixed glass windows.

SECTION 2

Architectural Description

Underpass road segment with two lanes in each direction, elevated sidewalks with decorative arched balustrades on each side, and three separate railroad bridges overhead. Railroad bridges supported by heavy tapered concrete piers and cross beams. Reinforced concrete with decorative scoring.

TxDOT bridge numbers: 041880004107016, 041880004107054, 041880004107055.

Architect: City of Amarillo, En. Stanley, engineer with Fort Worth & Denver Railroad and Rock Island Railroad.

A recommended eligible resource of particular note is the Fillmore Street Underpass (between East First and NE Second avenues) was built in 1931 as a joint project by the City of Amarillo, the Fort Worth & Denver Railroad and Chicago, and the Rock Island & Gulf Railway. This underpass depresses the roadbed below the railroad grade, permitting the continuous flow of two-way vehicular traffic beneath the operating rail line. Originally, this underpass had two-way traffic as evidenced by the concrete divider curbing, but now has one-way traffic flow (north-bound). The underpass was installed both as a safety measure and as a mechanism to relieve traffic congestion. This particular underpass has several separate bridging structures consisting of a reinforced-concrete underpass beneath three concrete-clad steel railroad bridges. The central roadbed passes underneath, flanked on either side by sidewalks separated from the roadway by concrete balustrades punctuated by vertical piers and round-arched openings. Ornamental street lights that originally stood on each side of the entrance have since disappeared. The design of the bridge recalls 1930s Art Moderne style, notable in the incised groove at the wall joints and the massing of the piers. The underpass has a metal name and date plaque as well as pressed concrete name and date panels listing “1931” and “Burlington Route” on the south bridge on both sides and “1931” and “Rock Island” on the north bridge on both sides. The center bridge has no names or dates shown. This underpass structure is listed with NBI numbers 041880004107016, 041880004107054, and 041880004107055.

This underpass is significant and is recommended eligible under Criterion A in the area of Transportation as a representative of measures taken to improve speed of travel and safety of the passengers. This structure is also recommended eligible under Criterion C in the area of Engineering as an outstanding example of Art Moderne styling in public infrastructure.

SECTION 2

Architectural Description

"Built between 1930 and 1932 at a cost of $315,000, the Art Deco style Potter County Courthouse rises eight stories above the courthouse square in downtown Amarillo. Regionally prominent architect W.C. Townes designed the terra cotta clad building in a stepped configuration more typical of urban skyscrapers during the period. The rectangular building originally housed government offices, court rooms and the county jail facilities. Stylized portrayals of regional motifs such as cattle and cactus grace its main entries and the apex of the tower." NR nomination.

Two-story motel complex with office, restaurant, and room units. Motel office is in two parts with angled roofline; south part in laundry and north part is office, both clad in rubble stone veneer, metal-framed fixed glass windows. Restaurant is a truncated A-frame with flat-roofed wings clad in stucco and rubble stone veneer, fixed glass windows, double entry door, and composition shingled wraparound roofline. Room unit blocks are two-story, brick walls with some sheet metal cladding, cantilevered balconies with angled supports, single entry doors, sash windows. There are two long blocks running east/west and one block running north/south. The N/S block has two rows under one roof, but both with entries on west side.

"The Nat typifies the whimsical architecture developed in response to increased use of the automobile during the 1920s. The primary (east) façade is a pastiche of a medieval fortress. High turrets at the corners and a crenelated parapet ornament the 2-story block clad in stucco veneer. An ample pointed arch marks the primary entrance, with windows and doors set deep in the wall. Originally visible from Sixth [Ave], the north elevation resembled a large ocean-going vessel replete with lifeboat-like elements near the roofline....Originally designed as an indoor swimming pool, the natatorium was converted into a ballroom in 1926." Recorded By: Leslie Wolfenden, Alyssa Gerszewski
Date Recorded: 4/4/2018
"This 1-story brick fire station features design elements influenced by the Mission Revival style including curvilinear parapets, red tiled roofs, and battered walls. A pergola graces the south elevation. Built to serve the rapidly growing San Jacinto area, the station resulted from proposals by W. E. Cazzell to establish service in the neighborhood. The building permit value of $10,500 was published in the Amarillo Globe on 13 December 1925. The station served the city until 1975, when it was sold to a private party for $7,600. It is the only pre-WWII fire station extant in Amarillo." (NR nomination)

Architectural Description

Public art installation and sculpture that was created in 1974 by Chip Lord, Hudson Marquez, and Doug Michels, who were a part of the art group Ant Farm. It consists of what were either older running used or junk Cadillac automobiles, representing a number of evolutions of the car line from 1949 to 1963, half-buried nose-first in the ground, at an angle purportedly corresponding to that of the Great Pyramids of Giza in Egypt. SECTION 2

Architectural Description

"A large rectangular shed with decorative cast-stone exterior cladding in the Moderne style. The shed is largely open but encloses two stories of service bays, offices, and sales room at the rear. Ornamental trim includes fluted piers with stylized floral capitals and a serrated parapet. Handsome signage in metal and neon includes "Home of Gunn Brothers Thrift Stamps" and "Goodyear" signs. The open area under the shed has a tile base.

Originally the Adkisson and Gunn Garage, this building has always functioned for automobile supply, service, and repair. In addition, it is the home of Gunn Brothers Thrift Stamps, 'Amarillo's only local trading stamp'. When it became a Goodyear outlet, Gunn Brothers retained control. The Goodyear signs were incorporated into the original design without destroying it. This is an excellent example of a Moderne automobile service building, and it is a fine example of a once common type which with its shaded driveway makes a good deal of sense in a climate like Amarillo's. Moreover, such a building was more sensitive to its urban environment in its maintenance of the building lines of the city. When it reaches 50 years of age in 1984, this building will be eligible for the National Register on the basis of its architectural design and its role in Amarillo's business history."

Image Description:

- The image shows a commercial building with the words "LDT Motors" visible on the exterior. The building is located at Sixth Ave SW, Amarillo, Texas. The surrounding area includes a few cars parked outside, and there is a clear blue sky in the background. The building appears to be a classic example of mid-20th-century architecture, typical of commercial districts in the 1950s.

Architectural Description

One-story auto dealership building with metal-framed full-height fixed glass windows across front and sides, single entry door, two double-wide service bays on front, four service bays on west elevation with curved caps and diamond detail on piers, raised roofline behind showroom probably had clerestory windows for extra lighting, large modern carports added along front. Decorative paint and bright orange curving lines added to building distract from building form.

Architectural Description

Occupying a quarter block along the historic alignment of US Route 66 in Amarillo, the Ranchotel typifies the tourist courts that evolved in the first half of the 20th century. In 1940, the Randall Construction Company built this 16-unit tourist court in a U-shaped configuration around a central office/residence. The one-story buildings feature detailing such as stuccoed wall surfaces and squat chimneys that reinforce the imagery of the region's vernacular adobe traditions.

"The Works Progress Administration (WPA), a federal program that provided employment for many of Amarillo's citizens during the Depression, built sidewalks on Sixth Street. Rectangular stamps imprinted in the concrete curbing along the street read "Works Progress Administration." In December 1935 building permits were issued to the Public Works Administration (PWA) for curbs, gutters, and paving. The Public Works Administration, established in 1933 at the height of the Depression, undertook major community projects that cities could not afford to handle. It provided funding for materials, while WPA funds paid for labor. Surviving WPA curbs stamps at the following locations indicate half-block lengths of sidewalk classified as a single Contributing structure."

"Initially paved in gravel in 1921, Sixth Street became the first highway leading out of Amarillo to points south and west. In 1927 the Plains Paving Company installed brick paving on a concrete foundation on Fifth Street (as 6th was then designated) from Florida to Tennessee avenues (Mechanic's Lien Records, Vols. 9, Page 244-249). In the same year, the Texas Road Company of Dallas won the contract to pave from Georgia to Belleview avenues using 3 inch vertical bricks (Deed Records, Potter County, Vol 179, Page 561). Property owners along the route were assessed for the cost of these projects. Installed as part of a subsequent improvement campaign in 1942 (see Plan 35), asphalt remains the finished surface throughout the historic district. The roadway through the district is classified as a Contributing structure." (NR nomination)

Architectural Description

"The US Route 66 - Sixth Street Historic District encompasses Amarillo's most intact collection of commercial buildings possessing significant associations with the highway. Platted in 1909 as part of a residential suburb, the street experienced little development until the 1920s. Gravel paving installed in 1921 as part of improvements to the Ozark Trail highway system established the street as a major conduit of traffic. Subsequent construction of commercial buildings in the district set a pattern of transportation related development for the next three decades. Following its designation as part of Route 66 in 1926, the street experienced explosive growth that resulted in construction of commercial enterprises catering to both neighborhood residents and travelers along the highway. As this development pattern continued unabated until the route shifted off the street in 1953, the district's period of significance conforms to the guidelines for Criteria Consideration G. Evaluated within the context of Transportation in Texas, 1875-1960, the distinctive urban form of the US Route 66 - Sixth Street Historic District is eligible for listing in the National Register under Criteria A and C at the state level of significance." Contractor Albert Randall built this half block section of modest strip commercial buildings for L.W. Bussey for $10,000. Featuring dark brown brick with limestone details, this row of four storefronts consists of a series of single doors flanked by glass display windows capped by fixed transoms. In 1924, Bussey commissioned 2719-27 on the southeast corner of Sixth and Florida to compete with the Cazzell Building on the southwest corner. These were the first major commercial buildings on Sixth Ave, with 2713-17 following in 1927. Constructed before the renumbering of San Jacinto in 1928, the buildings housed a series of shops in various configurations.

Contractor Albert Randall built this half block section of modest strip commercial buildings for L.W. Bussey for $10,000. Featuring dark brown brick with limestone details, this row of four storefronts consists of a series of single doors flanked by glass display windows capped by fixed transoms. In 1924, Bussey commissioned 2719-27 on the southeast corner of Sixth and Florida to compete with the Cazzell Building on the southwest corner. These were the first major commercial buildings on Sixth Ave, with 2713-17 following in 1927. Constructed before the renumbering of San Jacinto in 1928, the buildings housed a series of shops in various configurations.

Architectural Description

Two-story two-part commercial block brick building with three storefronts with single entry doors, fixed glass windows, curved modern awning, small wood-framed sash windows on second floor with cast stone sills, cast stone belt course and coping, and shallow stepped parapet.

Two-story building built for $18,500, which later experienced a dramatic reconfiguration as its façade was sliced off and moved back during the 1942 street improvement campaign.

SECTION 2

Architectural Description

One-story one-part commercial block building with single entry door, fixed glass windows under a modern shed-roofed metal canopy, and painted brick walls.

"Known as 'the mayor of San Jacinto' for his work towards its development, W. E. Cazzell and his wife, Ada, purchased the property next door to their house (510 South Florida, Site 172) in October 1918 (Potter County Records, Vol. 71, Page 253) for $190. They soon opened a general mercantile store on the property,... Reflective of the earlier development of Sixth Street as a neighborhood service center, the 1-story brick rectangular building housed two mercantile stores, two grocery stores, and two bakeries at various times during the period of significance. The Cazzells sold it to Allen Early in 1922 for $7,500 (Potter County Deed Records, Vol. 88, Page 415)." (NR nomination)

Architectural Description

One-story commercial block Roman brick building with four storefronts under a narrow flat-roofed ledge canopy. The two eastern storefronts have asymmetrical recessed angled entry with single entry door topped by jalousie transom window, metal-framed fixed glass windows. The storefront next to those two mirrors the recessed angled entry but has an altered storefront with single entry, wood siding, and replacement fixed glass windows. The west storefront has a narrow recessed angled entry with single entry door topped infilled transom window, metal-framed fixed glass wraparound windows.

"Representative of the modernistic design aesthetic typical of 1950s architecture in the district, this 1-story pink brick commercial strip is a study in planar geometry. The design combines plate glass display windows set at an angle to the street, brick baffles to differentiate the storefronts, a cantilevered canopy across the façade and a flat roof line with a simple parapet. The roughly L-shaped plan indicates the evolution of the building during the period of significance. Business operations at this site began in 1926 when Cal Farley opened his second service station and tire store at the rear of the lot. Farley later became nationally recognized for his work with underprivileged children as founder of Boys' Ranch. In 1935 he hired prominent local contractor C. W. Brott to build a $3,000 addition to the original stucco building. This addition enlarged the building to the east, providing space for an office and storage of tires and batteries. In 1945 research chemist L.G. Gusler purchased the property, commissioning contractor C.N. Elliott to build a concrete block addition across the front of the existing building. The $2,200 addition housed the office and sales facility for Gusler Products, a cleaning chemical supply company. Gusler also leased office space in the east portion to accountants, insurance agents and road and building contractors. In 1953 he commissioned the existing brick storefront, installing a drive-through passage to facilitate traffic for the Bottle shop, a liquor store occupying the western portion of the building. The building retains sufficient integrity to contribute to the character of the district, despite enclosure of the drive-through passage in 1991. The evolution of the building bespeaks the ongoing importance of the automobile to the district throughout the period of significance. From its earliest incarnation as a service station and tire store (still evident in the loading dock on the Alabama Avenue elevation) to the 1950s design aesthetic of the primary façade, the building represents attempts to attract, service and accommodate the automobile in the fabric of the neighborhood." Architectural Description

One-story flat-roofed rectangular-plan diner-type building with offset double door entry, horizontal windows with rounded ends, wood siding, rounded corners, and flat-roofed ledge canopy.

"Contractor J.L. Brodie built this 1-story frame commercial building featuring Art Moderne detailing such as rounded sheet metal corners, oval plate glass windows, 3-lite wood double doors and a rounded metal awning on front and sides. The Borden Company operated two Heap-O-Cream dairy bars downtown at the time they commissioned this popular eating establishment. The building was rehabilitated in 1990 as a demonstration project by Preservation Amarillo with the help of a San Jacinto Boy Scout troop. Plans for the original sign provided by the grandson of the sign painter guided replication in color, dimension, and style."

Architectural Description

One-story flat-roofed service station with two service bays with replacement rollup doors, sales office with centered single entry door topped by transom window, industrial windows on front and side, restroom door on east side, flat-roofed canopy over gas pump island supported by metal poles with two fins on top and horizontally banded at lower height than office.

"Featuring subdued Art Moderne detailing executed in stucco, this 1-story rectangular service station is fronted by a projecting canopy over the pump island. An office area accessed by glass panel entry door and two service bays with wooden overhead doors occupy the building. Individual light bulb sockets outline the canopy. The building originally housed the Adkisson-Baker Tire Company #2 which sold Texaco gasoline. By 1945 the Theo A. Bippus Service Station operated here. One of the three historic service stations extant in the district, the building is virtually unchanged since its grand opening in 1939. It typifies the standardized design used by Texaco to reinforce its corporate identity during the 1930s." (NR nomination)

SECTION 2

Architectural Description

Three-section building. East section is rectangular-plan with infilled storefront/service area with double door entry with sidelights and painted mural on east elevation.

The center section is a classic example of a Sinclair service station with sales office with single entry door topped by transom window, wood-framed fixed glass window under transom, stuccoed walls with corner piers and curved parapet, and two service bays under a Spanish tile pent roof, stepped corners on bay openings, and replacement rollup doors.

The west section is one-story flat-roofed commercial building with chamfered entry with double entry doors under transom windows, stuccoed walls, fixed window wall above ashlar stone veneer bulkhead.

Architectural Description

One-story one-part commercial block brick building with Spanish Colonial influence seen in the red metal tile canopy supported by wood brackets, pedimented cast stone parapet, cast stone diamond details. Brick piers separate storefronts. Centered entry with double doors flanked by sidelights and topped by diamond-paned transom windows. Storefronts have fixed glass windows over bulkheads under diamond-paned transom windows.

"Constructed in 1926, this is one of the earliest examples of a strip commercial building in Amarillo. Contractor M. C. Hancock built it speculatively for himself and partners T. W. Cotton and J. W. Kemp. The long rectangular building features detailing loosely based on the Spanish Colonial Revival style. Divided by brick piers into eight glass storefronts, the flexible plan could be arranged into larger or smaller spaces. Store entrances, display windows, and transoms are shaded by a red-tiled pent roof that runs the length of the building. The parapet features cast concrete coping broken by several gables. First leased to an auto paint firm, a barber shop, beauty shop, and a drug store, the building has also housed cafes, store fixture companies and bakeries." (NR nomination)

Brick piers separate storefronts. East storefront has offset single entry door and fixed glass windows topped by transom window. West storefront has centered single door entry flanked by fixed glass windows all under transom window.

"Constructed in 1926, this is one of the earliest examples of a strip commercial building in Amarillo. Contractor M. C. Hancock built it speculatively for himself and partners T. W. Cotton and J. W. Kemp. The long rectangular building features detailing loosely based on the Spanish Colonial Revival style. Divided by brick piers into eight glass storefronts, the flexible plan could be arranged into larger or smaller spaces. Store entrances, display windows, and transoms are shaded by a red-tiled pent roof that runs the length of the building. The parapet features cast concrete coping broken by several gables. First leased to an auto paint firm, a barber shop, beauty shop, and a drug store, the building has also housed cafes, store fixture companies and bakeries." (NR nomination)

SECTION 2

Architectural Description

One-story rectangular-plan building with stuccoed walls, single entry door flanked by fixed glass windows, shed-roofed modern canopy over door and windows, infilled window on east elevation.

"This simple rectangular building features stuccoed wall surfaces pierced by a glass paneled door, plate glass windows and a roll-down garage door. Ornamental crenelations grace the otherwise plain building. Part of a national chain that often incorporated lodging too, this operation originally featured a large Dutch windmill at curbside designed to attract the eye of passing motorists. This idiosyncratic approach represented early efforts to cater to travelers passing through the district by providing modest restaurant facilities to motorists waiting for their cars to be serviced. The building housed both the café and gas station operations until 1950, when the café expanded into the larger building at 3403 West Sixth." (NR nomination)

Architectural Description

One-story porcelain enamel paneled service station with two service bays and sales office, flat-roofed canopy over gas pump island supported by metal poles with two fins on top. Service bays have been infilled but industrial windows remain on the east elevation. Sales office has centered single entry door flanked by metal-framed fixed glass windows. Triple horizontal banding around building and canopy.

"This 1-story rectangular building clad in white porcelain enameled panels includes an office, two service bays and restrooms. A projecting canopy supported by pipe columns shelter the drive and pump island. It typifies the classic design for Texaco service stations developed by industrial designer Walter Dorwin Teague in 1937. One of the first standardized gas station designs, the basic formula and red star motif provided instant recognition to a 1930s design typifies development patterns in the immediate post-war period and indicates the continued local significance of Route 66 during those years." (NR nomination)
