SECTION 2

Architectural Description

Classic example of 1960s Phillips 66 service station with tilted triangular-canopy supported by three-legged truss poles, three angled service bays, canted windows walls, single entry doors topped by transom windows. Jalousie windows on front and side. "Although its date of construction falls outside the period of significance, this site hosted a Phillips 66 service station from the 1930s to the 1990s. The earliest facility included the corporation's standard issue Tudor Revival style cottage, designed to blend in with a residential neighborhood. That building survived on the site until after construction of the current facility in 1963. Designed to catch the eye, its replacement exhibits exaggerated modernistic features including an office with canted plate glass walls, angled service bay entrances and a soaring triangular canopy over the pump island. Herb Martin operated the station through all the changes in styles and marketing. Martin assisted many Route 66 travelers during the 1930s, giving gas to some and allowing those without money for lodging to spend the night at the station." (NR nomination)

"Locally prominent architect Guy Carlander designed this duplex for Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hubbell in 1925. They owned the Hubbell Diamond T Truck Company at 3922 West Sixth (now demolished). At the western end of one of Amarillo's busiest streets, the house typifies the modest housing built during the city's boom years. The dark brown brick dwelling features typical Craftsman details such as battered brick piers supporting the twin entry porticoes. The building remains virtually unchanged since its construction." ## SECTION 2

Architectural Description

Two-part building with sales office and service bay. Situated at an angle on a corner lot, the front sales office has a small block for the office with reconfigured openings and a masonry canopy supported by a Y-pier. The corners of the building have heavy piers with vertical scouring as does the canopy pier. Horizontal striping around the canopy. A rest room door is on the north elevation. The rear service bay is attached to the sales office at an angle and features the same heavy piers, a single entry door, and three vertical industrial windows on the rear wall; the garage bay opening has been infilled. The hipped roofs are probably not original; was probably flat originally.

Architectural Description

Two-story two-part commercial block brick building with storefront on first floor with centered single entry door with transom window under a small shed-roofed canopy supported by decorative wood brackets with Spanish red tiles, remodeled storefront with fixed glass windows over stuccoed bulkhead. Second floor access door set to right of storefront with replacement door and boarded transom window. Second floor has sash windows, decorative brickwork (basketweave recessed panels, soldiered belt course), and centered arched parapet with cast stone coping. One-story bay on the east side has boarding. Ghost signs on west elevation. Two metal angle beams run up the building on either side of the entry, the remains of a large two-sided billboard that was over the building. The taller two-story block to the rear of both two-story and one-story blocks in front is brick with metal-framed casement windows, and a garage bay on the west elevation and metal-framed sash windows and fire escape on the east elevation.

Architectural Description

Small structure with full-height fixed glass windows, centered single entry door, all under a flat roof that angles up on streetside, two brick wing walls on either side of structure that rise up into tall piers at the rear creating structure to support an open trellis screen (similar to one seen at 801 SW 6th). Set back on parcel with wing walls of brick piers and metal siding between piers, and trellis screen on west side of parcel. The building behind the screen came later (1969) and is brick with flat roof, fixed glass windows, single entry door, and service bay.

Architectural Description

Two-part commercial office/warehouse building. The front part is a two-story flat-roofed rectangular-plan glass box on brick foundation. The east side of the glass block is the primary entrance with shallow steps up to metal-framed double door entry with transom window, curved screen wall clad in travertine panels with Roman brick one-story block behind the screen. The back part is a taller two-story rectangular-block building with metal-framed double door entry under a modern vinyl canopy with nine vertical slot windows under a metal band that lines up with glass box roofline, tall garage bay to rear of side elevation. Looks like an architect-designed building. Needs more research.

Architectural Description

Set of four gabled residential-type buildings for tourist court. Each building has narrow wood siding, wood shingles in gable ends, three-over-one wood-framed sash windows, brick perimeter foundation walls, single entry doors under gabled porch stoops supported by wood brackets, exposed rafter tails. Recorded in Historic Amarillo Survey as 4 unit residential complex. Supposedly the first known example in Amarillo of the 'bungalow' and 'bungalow court arrangement'. Note the city directory lists use as Tourist Rooms for a short time.

Architectural Description

"This 2-story dark brown brick church features a pedimented entry supported by square brick pilaster, with a double limestone string course below the cornice. The double entry doors sit below an arched stained glass transom. During the 1942 street widening, the building lost its original entry stairway. Contemporaneous photos show broad concrete stairs leading to Sixth Street, with a solid brick balustrade capped with cast stone. The current configuration of steps rising from Tennessee Street with pipe railings replaced the original stairway following the street widening project. The south façade features four sets of paired 1/1 wood double-hung narrow stained glass windows, with two pairs of the same windows lighting the east and west side of the entry. Four arched stained glass windows grace the east and west sides of the original sanctuary. A large 2-story brick addition at the rear houses the present sanctuary and the educational facilities. The Rev. I.T. Huckabee organized the church on 26 November 1923, with services held in the parsonage until the sanctuary was completed." (NR nomination)

Architectural Description

County fairgrounds bordered by SE 10th Ave, S. Marrs St, SE 3rd Ave, and S Grant St. Comparing historical map (1955 quad) to current aerial view, it appears that the majority of the historic buildings have been demolished and replaced. The Dick Bivins Stadium is the only playing field in same location but appears to have been updated/remodeled. Historic gateways are found in the southwest corner.

SECTION 2

Architectural Description

Grade separation for railroad tracks overhead and two-lane two-way roads separated by median and concrete wall bridge support, sidewalks on both sides with concrete walls and metal railings on top. Art Deco detailing on side walls of abutments similar to grade separation bridges on Fillmore. The sidewalk walls look newer and have imprinted rectangular panels.

SECTION 2

Architectural Description

"A fourteen-story 600-room hotel building in a U-shaped plan above the second story and with a sparse application of eclectic, nominally Spanish Colonial Revival ornamental detail. The building has been totally remodeled on the ground level. Its mezzanine consists of double-hung windows set in arched, ornamental frames with ornamental iron lanterns between the windows. Above the suspended entrance marquee there is a rounded parapet at the base of the light court. The shaft rises for nine undifferentiated stories above the mezzanine and terminates in a two-story giant order. Inside, the lobby has been partially remodeled but the original two-story space with massive fluted columns and iron railings is intact. The "Old Tascosa" nightclub in the basement, with its murals, is said to be intact." THC survey

SECTION 2

Architectural Description

One-story cross-gabled L-plan residence that may have been a tourist court as historical aerials show approximately six separate buildings in a row behind and slightly to the west of the main building; they are not longer extant in that position; there are two buildings to the east of the main building that may have been moved there. The main building has an extended leg on the L that may have been room units. The main building has stuccoed walls, replacement sash windows, replacement door, and a new front-gabled porch supported by brick piers.

The Louis H. Smith Inc. Firestone Store is a two-story L-shaped building with a large drive-through canopy creating an overall square plan. Constructed in 1930 as a Firestone-affiliated automobile service and supply center, the building occupies most of the corner lot, and the large, covered, open-air service area (the canopy) is accessible from both streets. Though currently unoccupied, the building contains multiple service bays, and supply and show rooms on the first floor. The short-height second floor is largely open space that was once used for tire storage. Faced with polychromatic bricks in yellow, orange and grey hues, the primary facades feature an eclectic mix of cast stone ornament reflective of Art Deco styling. Brick columns and engaged pilasters, topped by stylized capitals give a vertical emphasis to the building's otherwise boxy massing; a geometric ribbon band composed of zigzags and spheres defines the height of the first floor on both street-facing facades; and the Firestone logo (a shield with an "F") appears in multiple prominent locations. Aside from minor alterations to the overhead door materials and some windows, the building retains a remarkable degree of integrity. Its form and design clearly reflect the commercial aspects of the pre-WWII automobile service and supply stations once common across America.

The property is a reflection of the commercial aspects of auto service that developed during the interwar years in America, as the one-stop service and supply centers sought to distinguish themselves from the more traditional and simple filling stations in an era of unprecedented prosperity and auto-based mobility. The evolution from the simple filling station to the more complex building form represented by the Firestone building is the result of the evolution of the automobile itself, its cultural use and technological advances, as well as the evolution in the business models utilized by the commercial enterprises who specialized in providing automobile services and supplies in an increasingly competitive market.

Architectural Description

Large one-story flat-roofed rectangular-plan commercial building with decorative brick and cast stone cornice, round-arched opening with basketweave-patterned surround and cast stone keystone (boarded opening), boarded rectangular opening (this may be same as round-arched opening as the plywood is raised from wall), three large windows with glass block, and replacement rollup door on service bay. Large windows on north elevation have glass block and some have been resized. The brick wall is laid with alternating stretcher and end, creating a visual diamond pattern.

Date Recorded: 12/6/2017
SECTION 2

Architectural Description

Concrete ROW marker about 2 feet tall with an obelisk shape and chamfered edges located on the north side of the north I-40 access road at the intersection with W 20th/6th St on the northeast corner just west of the grain complex in Bushland.

The others were possibly removed when the old rail bed was removed 2002 notes: A number of these markers appear on what looks like old road bed. A: north of north access road at just east of S. Hill Rd; B: north of access road at east of Bushland (east of Blesse Rd); C: north of access road, west of Bushland at road to Southwestern Portland Cement Co. (located); D: north of north access road west of Bushland at W 20th, west of grain complex (located).

This resource consists of gas station and restaurant. The restaurant is a long rectangular-plan gable with false parapet and shed-roofed rear addition building with shed-roofed full-width porch supported by wood posts, rustic vertical wood siding, wood-framed sash window, and double door entry. The gas station has board-and-batten siding, single entry doors, metal-framed fixed glass windows, shed-roofed porch supported by wood posts and detached canopy over gas pump island supported by heavy fabricated metal piers. The two sections are connected by a small board-and-batten hallway block.

Architectural Description

Highway roadside park with three picnic areas. Each picnic area has long table top supported on one end by wide cream brick pier and on the other end by low cream brick wall. The two slab benches are supported the same way. The canopy is a low-sloped metal gable roof supported by two pairs of canted metal posts on low cream brick walls capped by concrete slabs. There are no plantings to screen from the highway or frontage road. Located west of Vega.

SECTION 2

Architectural Description

Highway roadside park with three picnic areas. Each picnic area has long table top supported on one end by wide cream brick pier and on the other end by low cream brick wall. The two slab benches are supported the same way. The canopy is a low-sloped metal gable roof supported by two pairs of canted metal posts on low cream brick walls capped by concrete slabs. There are no plantings to screen from the highway or frontage road. Located west of Vega.

SECTION 2

Architectural Description

The Vega Motel consists of three separate wings built in a U-plan around a central courtyard. The west and south wings were built with hipped roofs in 1947 and contained six units each. In 1953, a gable roof wing was added to the east with eight units. All three motel wings were originally built with an exterior of stucco and with a central office/manager's residence. In 1964, the office/manager's residence was razed and a new office/manager's residence was added to the north façade of the west wing. Also in 1964, the original stucco exterior was covered with a new surface of Perma-Stone.

SECTION 2

Architectural Description

Highway roadside park with five picnic areas. Each picnic area has a table top supported on both ends by red brick piers with two slab benches are supported the same way. The canopy is a low-sloped metal shed roof supported by two pairs of metal posts (one canted, one vertical) on low stepped red brick walls capped by concrete slabs. The vegetation consists of trees that may have been planted a certain number of feet apart, but too many are now missing to confirm that. The trees are placed on the north side of the picnic areas and do not screen the highway from view. Appears to be TxDOT Arbor 12 "Bowen" type.

Historic: Transportation: roadside park

Recorded By: Leslie Wolfenden
Date Recorded: 12/4/2017
Highway roadside park with five picnic areas. Each picnic area has a table top supported on both ends by red brick piers with two slab benches are supported the same way. The canopy is a low-sloped metal shed roof supported by two pairs of metal posts (one canted, one vertical) on low stepped red brick walls capped by concrete slabs. The vegetation consists of trees that may have been planted a certain number of feet apart, but too many are now missing to confirm that. The trees are placed on the south side of the picnic areas and do not screen the highway from view. Appears to be TxDOT Arbor 12 "Bowen" type.

Image of a culvert in a natural setting.
Concrete pipe culvert with low concrete side walls along the original Route 66. This one has experienced severe erosion underneath, leaving the pipe culvert, walls, and deck suspended in air. The side view shows how the ground was dug up before placing the pipe in the depression, then filling the void with stone rubble, before pouring the concrete deck and walls.

Architectural Description

"Approximately 40' to the southwest of the Joseph Brownlee House is a gas station built in 1950. This gas station is of concrete block construction and has a poured concrete foundation, flat roof and exterior of painted concrete block. The main (south) façade has a metal and wood drive-thru bay. This bay rests on a concrete pad and the canopy above displays curved corners. The soffit panel of the canopy is of aluminum and the roof is of wood and aluminum. The canopy is supported by two steel posts. The steel posts rest on an gas pump island made of poured concrete. The circular depressions for three gas pumps remain intact. Approximately 13’ south of the island is another oval concrete island with the remnants of three gas pumps.

The building entered on its main façade with an original two-light and single panel steel and glass door. Flanking this entrance are two original eight-light steel and glass windows. These windows have two hopper panels in the top lights. The main façade reveals original sixteen-light glass and wood paneled overhead track garage door. On the [west] elevation is an original twelve-light steel and glass window, which opens onto the office area. This elevation has two entrances leading into the men and women’s bathrooms. These doors are original two-light and steel panel design with frosted glass. A fixed three-light steel and glass window with a concrete sill is located between the two doors and provides light into the women’s bathroom. On the north façade is a similar window, which illuminates the men’s bathroom. The north elevation presents two windows. The central window is an original eight-light steel and glass design; the east bay window is original twelve-light steel and glass design. Both windows have poured concrete sills.

The interior of the station’s office area is made of a poured concrete floor, drywall ceiling and walls of concrete block. An original paneled wood door connects the office section with the garage. Between the office section and garage bay is an original six-light fixed window. The interior of the garage bay has a concrete floor, stuccoed concrete walls and a wood beam ceiling. The men’s and women’s bathrooms no longer contain toilets. The men’s room retains an original sink but no fixtures remain in the women’s bath."

SECTION 2

Architectural Description

"Approximately 50' west of the Texaco Gas Station is an Art Moderne-style diner built in 1952 by Joseph Brownlee. This building rests on a poured concrete foundation and has a flat roof of corrugated metal and exterior walls of concrete block. The main entrance is an original two-light and single-panel steel and glass door. The door reveals a painted sign that says, "Please Call at Ole Correll 3rd Place East—That Way". This entrance is flanked by two original six-over-six steel and glass fixed windows that rest on concrete sills. At the corners of the main façade are concrete block extensions with curved shoulders. Adjacent to the entrance is a concrete block pier, which extends to join a curved sign panel at the rooftop. This sign panel is aluminum and the painted letters "Diner" remain visible on the west and east facades. The east façade also displays a painted Mexican style sombrero and the words "Little Juarez." Extending above the windows and door on the south, west and east elevations is a corrugated metal awning with curved corners and remnants of small light fixtures. On the east elevation are a fixed two-light steel and glass window and an eight-light steel and glass window. This façade also has an original three-panel wood door. On the north elevation are two one-over-one wood sash windows. The west elevation reveals a window that has been enclosed with concrete block and another window covered with metal panels. The interior has a concrete floor and stuccoed concrete walls and drywall ceilings. The interior is divided into two rooms with a central arched opening flanked by two arched windows between the rooms. Approximately 25’ to the southwest of the building is a steel sign erected in 1952 with three support posts and a plywood sign panel. No legible signage remains extant." (NR nomination)

"The State Line Café and Gas Station was constructed in 1953 by Homer Ehresman and built directly in front of the Texas Longhorn Motel facing Route 66. The café is a one-story concrete block building with a gable roof of wood shingles and resting on a poured concrete foundation. On the main (south) façade are two pedestrian entrances with original two-light and single-panel glass and steel doors. Flanking the west bay entrance are two original twenty-light glass and steel fixed windows with poured concrete sills. The west bay of the building contains an original garage bay with a glass and wood paneled overhead track garage door. The interior of this bay retains an original hydraulic auto jack.

On the main façade the east bay entrance incorporates a ca. 1970 shed roof, stuccoed vestibule with two aluminum and glass doors. To the east of this entrance is a twenty-light steel and glass window. On the east elevation is an original one-story concrete block wing with a flat roof and fixed aluminum and glass windows. In front of the building are a concrete pad and two concrete island bays with foundations and pipes for gas pumps. On the main façade of the café is a gable wall dormer and in the gables is weatherboard siding. On the west elevation contains an entrance with an original two-light and single-panel glass and steel door. One window opening on this façade is covered with plywood. The other window opening is an original eight-light fixed steel window. The north elevation is entered through a central paneled wood door. Windows on this elevation are original two-light design and paired three-light design with two-light transoms. An aluminum and glass door opens to the one-wing story on the east elevation.

Directly in front of the building is a steel sign erected in 1955 which said "Motel - First Motel in Texas- Café" facing west and "Motel – Last Motel in Texas- Café" facing east. The sign is internally lit plastic design on two steel posts." (NR nomination)

"Homer Ehresman built the Texas Longhorn Motel in 1955, which remained in operation until 1976. The motel units are now vacant but the office is used as a residence. The motel is "U" shaped and consists of a detached office wing on the east and thirteen individual motel units which comprise the north and west wings. The motel has a poured concrete foundation, a gable roof of asphalt shingles and an exterior of concrete block. The office wing has a gable roof of corrugated metal. On the main (west) façade of this wing is a shed roof porch with original steel support posts. The main entrance into the office is a ca. 1960 glass and wood door. Adjacent to the door is a large picture window. Other windows are original one-over-one and two-over-two horizontal wood sash. The motel is composed of two sections. The west wing is partially of stucco construction and contains original paired one-over-one wood sash windows and original five-panel wood doors. The interiors feature small kitchens and baths with three-panel doors and drywall ceilings and walls and carpeted wood floors. Windows on the west elevation are original one-over-one wood sash. The units on the north wing are of concrete block and have solid wood doors and original nine-light casement windows with fixed central lights and operable corner lights. The interior of these units reveal concrete block walls, original baths, concrete floors and drywall ceilings. Across the width of the two motel wings is a shed roof porch supported by wrought-iron posts. Extending in front of the units is a concrete walkway." (NR nomination)

Architectural Description

"To the northwest of the State Line Bar is an abandoned eight-unit adobe motel built ca. 1930. The motel has a concrete foundation, an exterior of stucco over adobe and a gable roof of asphalt shingles. The main façade has nine entrances. The west entrance has a ca. 1960 door and leads to a storage area. The other motel room doors that are extant are original single-light and three-panel doors. The windows are largely missing their sash but appear to have been two-over-two wood sash units. Each unit contains a window opening on the north façade. There is no fenestration on the east and west elevations. At the eaves consist of exposed rafters. A concrete sidewalk extends across the front of the building. The interior of the units reveal stuccoed adobe walls, drywall ceilings and concrete and linoleum floors. The interiors were subdivided ca. 1950 with bathrooms that contain toilets and sinks." Architectural Description

"Just east of the state line is a gas station of adobe and stucco construction built ca. 1925. John Wesley Ferguson constructed the building, which was later [owned] by Jim Broyles as a franchise of the Mobil Oil Company. It has a poured concrete foundation, a stucco exterior and a hipped roof of wood shingles. On the main (south) façade is a drive-thru bay with a wood canopy roof extension. This is supported by two original wood posts. Between the two posts is a concrete gas pump island with remnants of two pumps and a water pipe. The main entrance is an original single-light and three-panel glass and wood door with the glass now missing. Flanking the entrance are two one-over-one wood sash windows now missing their glass lights. On the east elevation are two window openings with the remnants of sash windows. On the north elevation is an entrance with the remnants of a glass and wood paneled door. On the west elevation are three window openings now missing their sash units. The interior of the gas station exhibits the remnants of plywood ceilings, stuccoed adobe walls and wood floors." (NR nomination)

Architectural Description

"This dwelling was constructed ca. 1910 and its original owner is unknown. During the 1930s and 1940s it was owned by the Angel family who provided domestic help for the John Wesley Ferguson family. The property was occupied until the 1970s and it is presently vacant and abandoned. It is a pyramidal square plan dwelling with stone walls covered in stucco. The building has a stone foundation, a hipped roof of wood shingles and an exterior of stucco. On the main (south) façade is an entrance which is now missing its door. Some window sash remains and are two-over-two wood design and the windows have wood lintels. The interior has a stone flue, a dirt floor and stuccoed walls and drywall ceiling. At the rear of the building is a ell wing built ca. 1930 which has stuccoed wood walls. At the roofline is a brick flue." NR nomination

Architectural Description

"To the north of the gas station are two outbuildings, both of which were built as restrooms. Approximately 40' north of the gas station is a hipped roof building of adobe built ca. 1925. It has a dirt floor, walls of adobe and stucco and a hipped roof of wood shingles. It was built as a restroom with an interior dividing wall of adobe. On the south façade is a window and entrance opening. The door remains extant and is of vertical board design. On the east elevation is an entrance opening, but the door at this location is missing. There is no fenestration on the north elevation. On the west elevation is an entrance with no door remaining. Foundations of privies remain extant on the interior of the building." NR nomination

"This dwelling was originally built ca. 1930 in Amarillo, Texas and moved to this location by Joseph Brownlee in 1950. The dwelling is a gable-front Bungalow with a crimped metal gable roof, an exterior of aluminum siding and a poured concrete foundation. Following its relocation the house was remodeled with wrought-iron porch posts and the addition of a faux stone veneer on the main façade beneath the porch. The main façade has a gable-front porch with wrought-iron posts on original concrete piers. This façade has two entrances, which have original three-vertical light, paneled glass and wood doors. Windows are original one-over-one rectangular wood sash. At the roofline are purlins. On the projected bay of the main façade is a large fixed window added in 1950. Attached on the northeast corner of the house is a frame and stucco wing and shed roof wing with a faux stone exterior added after the relocation in 1950. Attached to the east façade of the stuccoed wing is a corrugated metal garage. At the rear of the house is a corrugated metal shed roof wing." NR nomination

Architectural Description

The Glenrio Historic District is significant under National Register Criteria A and C. Under Criterion A, Glenrio is significant within the context of Transportation as illustrative of communities which evolved along Route 66 in the 20th century to provide services such as motels, gas stations, and restaurants. With the rise of automobile travel in America, US 66 became one of the major east/west thoroughfares across the country. Communities along this highway such as Glenrio became important stops for travelers and provided opportunities for commercial development. The district is significant under Criterion C within the context of architecture for its notable collection of roadside commercial architecture of the mid-20th century. The district contains 17 buildings and structures which contribute to its significance. Two motels, three gas stations, two restaurants and other buildings remain in the district and are illustrative of the types of business which evolved to serve Route 66 travelers. While most of these are common building forms of the period, the Brownlee Diner reflects the Art Moderne style with its curved corners and streamlined design. Route 66 was one of the nation's premier east-west highways well into the mid-20th century and the resources within the district reflect the automobile culture of the period. The Glenrio Historic District is representative of the clusters of the businesses which flourished along Route 66 until the construction of the interstate in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

Architectural Description

"Just to the southwest of the State Line Motel is the State Line Bar built ca. 1935 by John Wesley Ferguson and remodeled ca. 1960 with a concrete block veneer on the main (south) façade.... The building shows a poured concrete foundation, a flat roof of crimped metal and an exterior of concrete block and stucco. The main entrance is a ca. 1960 aluminum and glass door. Windows are ca. 1960 two-light glass and aluminum fixed design. Across the width of the building is a frame canopy. The west elevation has an original one-over-one wood sash window. Located along the west façade is a ca. 1940 frame wing built to house the Glenrio, New Mexico Post Office. This wing is sheathed in weatherboard siding; along the main (south) façade of this wing is a ca. 1960 wood door. The window on this façade is missing its sash. On the north elevation is a small window opening. This façade has two door openings with original three-vertical light glass and wood paneled doors with the glass missing. Between these two doors is a one-over-one wood sash window. On the east façade the two original window openings have been enclosed with stucco. The interior reveals ca. 1970 wall paneling, ceiling paneling and a carpeted floor." (NR nomination)
