Welcome to

Welcome to Courthouse Cornerstones, the Texas Historical Commission’s (THC) quarterly update on the Texas Historic Courthouse Preservation Program.

This groundbreaking program exists because people love historic courthouses and understand the benefits of restoring them to their original grandeur. The THC is very excited about the tremendous response we’ve received from preservation partners like you around the state, and is more convinced than ever of the importance of preserving these Texas treasures for future generations to enjoy.

I invite you to visit our web site at www.thc.state.tx.us for additional information on historic Texas courthouses. If you have questions about the program, please call the THC’s Architecture Division at 512/463-6094 and we’ll be happy to help.

We appreciate your support and interest in the Texas Historic Courthouse Preservation Program and look forward to bringing you many success stories as the grant money is put to work, construction begins and we bring Texas history back to life, one courthouse at a time!

Sincerely,

F. Lawerence Oaks
Executive Director,
Texas Historical Commission

Texas Historic Courthouse Preservation Program Awards First Grants

The Texas Historical Commission (THC) recently awarded matching grants to 19 Texas counties to restore and preserve their historic courthouses as part of the Texas Historic Courthouse Preservation Program.

The THC announced the first round of grant recipients at its quarterly commission meeting on May 4, 2000 in San Antonio. Matching grants were awarded to Atascosa, Bexar, Donley, Ellis, Erath, Gray, Grimes, Hopkins, Lampasas, Lee, Llano, Maverick, Milam, Presidio, Rains, Red River, Shackelford, Sutton and Wharton counties. Grant amounts ranged from $250,000 for emergency stabilization repairs to more than $3 million for more involved renovations. The grant recipients will submit architectural plans and specifications for courthouse improvements to the THC and construction will begin by the end of the year.

“Historic courthouses are a profound reminder of the spirit and vision of our ancestors,” said THC Commission Chair John L. Nau, III. “Today, it is our responsibility to honor this irreplaceable legacy by empowering local communities to use preservation as a way to promote heritage tourism and revitalize local economies.”

The Texas Historic Courthouse Preservation Program was created in 1999 by Gov. George W. Bush and the Texas Legislature to distribute $50 million in matching grants to Texas counties for the restoration of their historic courthouses. It represents one of the largest and most far-reaching historic preservation initiatives ever conceived by a state government.

Due to the extraordinary response and interest from the counties, THC commission members awarded a total of $42.4 million in the first round of grants.

“The overwhelming response from the counties truly demonstrates the immediate need for this kind of preservation work,” said THC Executive Director Larry Oaks.

“Texas courthouses are some of the finest works of 19th- and early 20th-century public architecture in the nation. They illustrate a wide scope of architectural styles and represent the individualism of early Texans and their pride in their communities. The grants will help preserve the historical integrity of these structures for generations to come.”

Unfortunately, $50 million will only scratch the surface in meeting the needs of these Texas treasures. THC architects who have made broad assessments of the state’s more than 220 historic courthouses estimate that the cost to make all necessary repairs could exceed $750 million. Contingent on additional funding, the THC plans to continue the program for several more rounds to assist as many counties as possible.

Clock towers, common to many Texas courthouses, have served as stable landmarks and beacons of strength to communities for generations.

COMMON COURTHOUSE QUESTIONS

Q: Who makes the final decision about which counties receive matching grants from the Texas Historic Courthouse Preservation Program?
A: The final decision is made by the 18 governor-appointed Texas Historical Commission (THC) members. Once a county’s master plan and application have been approved, the courthouse is graded in several criteria categories including age, historic significance and degree of endangerment. To view the complete list of Grant Application Criteria and Scoring Values, visit our web site at www.thc.state.tx.us. After the Courthouse Committee assigns values, the results are turned over to the full commission for the final decision. The commissioners are citizen members who are appointed by the governor on a rotating basis to six-year terms. Their careful consideration and vote based on the assigned values determines which counties receive grants.

Q: Will there be a Round III or IV of the Texas Historic Courthouse Preservation Program?
A: We hope so! The original $50 million appropriation from the Texas Legislature will be depleted when the Round II grants are awarded in October. Contingent on additional funding from the Legislature in the upcoming session, the THC plans to continue the program for several more rounds and assist as many historic courthouses as possible. If your county is interested in applying for possible future funding, we encourage you to visit our web site at www.thc.state.tx.us or call us at 512/463-6094 to learn how you can prepare.
