VARNER-HOGG PLANTATION
STATE HISTORIC SITE
West Columbia, Texas

TEXAS HISTORICAL COMMISSION
REAL PLACES TELLING REAL STORIES
VARNER-HOGG PLANTATION

Martin Varner, a member of Stephen F. Austin’s colony, settled here in 1824. The antebellum mansion was built by the enslaved workers of the property’s second owner, Columbus Patton. In 1901, James S. Hogg, the first native-born Texas governor, purchased the land for oil speculation. Stroll the magnificent grounds and explore the mansion.

1702 N. 13th St., West Columbia, TX 77486
979-345-4656

Tuesday–Saturday 9 a.m.–5 p.m.
Last admission sold at 4:30 p.m.

Closed Thanksgiving, Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, New Year’s Eve, and New Year’s Day.

visitvhp.com

Located two miles north of West Columbia on FM 2852 (N. 13th St.).